

Translator and editor

German - English

Imagine starting your work day from the comfort of your couch, or in our office near the Hamburg harbor. It's 9 a.m. OK, then, 8 a.m. if you're an early bird, or even 10, depending on your schedule. Your colleagues greet you in person with a warm smile, or online with a cheery "Moin!" as you plan your projects for the day.

Translation and editing assignments roll in from loyal customers who value the quality and accuracy of your work, and new customers need little convincing that there is no one better than you to handle their texts. From travel and tourism to healthcare, automotive, and more, the variety of topics and mix of projects both big and small keep the job exciting, and your team members know they can rely on you to always meet deadlines – even when they're a little tight from time to time .

But not tonight (hopefully). Tonight, wordinc is throwing its summer party, and you can't wait to unwind with your colleagues, enjoy a night out in Hamburg, and raise a glass to another great day at work.

If this is your idea of an idyllic work environment – one where you have a supportive team, flexible hours, and room to grow both personally and professionally – then apply today to be our new translator and editor (DE > EN).

In this role, you will ...

- Translate texts for marketing, automotive, finance, and engineering, from German into English
- Proofread translations of such texts
- Post-edit machine-generated translations
- Create, update, and fall in love with style guides
- Wonder why you didn't apply sooner!

You're good to go if you ...

- Are an open, communicative, and reliable team player
- Have already done some translating and/or proofreading from German to English
- Have experience with Trados, Phrase, or similar CAT tools
- Want a job with flexible hours, as part of a team that values your work, in a work environment that feels like home

Send your CV along with a motivation letter (not longer than one page), including your earliest start date and salary expectations, to Jake at bewerbung@wordinc.de and take the first step to joining our family.

Because we're sure that you'll feel right at home at wordinc.

Jake Baskin, Translator and editor
Hongkongstr. 7, 20457 Hamburg, bewerbung@wordinc.de